Privacy Statement

Responsible body
Responsible body within the meaning of data protection legislation is the German Commission for UNESCO.

The task of collecting data on behalf of and in the name of the German Commission for UNESCO is performed by lab concepts, Das Laboratorium für Konzeption und Realisation in Politik, Bildung, Kultur GmbH (lab concepts), Am Hofgarten 15, 53113 Bonn (Germany).

When using data, lab concepts will respect the statutory data protection regulations. It will also bind its employees to observe these regulations (Section 5, Federal Data Protection Act (BDSG)) and will have its data protection officer verify compliance with this duty upon request.

Nature, scope and purpose of data collection and data processing lab concepts stores, amends, deletes, disables and/or uses data collected as part of the event for the sole purpose of running the event and – subject to the user’s consent – for the purpose of statistical evaluation (hereinafter referred to as “data”):
Personal data relating to the clients, such as their name, address, telephone number, e-mail address as well as data that is required in order to run the event.

Disclosure of information to third parties
Information that lab concepts receives will only be disclosed to third parties to the extent described as follows: If it aids the running of the event, your data will be disclosed to external parties who are jointly involved with lab concepts in running the event. lab concepts will conclude an agreement with such parties – taking data protection regulations into account and in compliance with the prescribed guidelines – binding them to handle personal data with due care and not to use it for their own purposes or to disclose it to third parties.
Hosts and co-hosts commissioning lab concepts with the organization and running of the event will receive all of the recorded data in its entirety for their own use.
Data processing, storage and disclosure lab concepts will store, amend, delete, disable and/or use my data on behalf of the German Commission for UNESCO within the limits of the event and will only disclose my data to third parties and the German Commission for UNESCO respectively for the sole purpose of organizing and running the event (see also Disclosure of information to third parties).

The following personal data will be posted online in a list of participants made available during and after the World Heritage Committee Session on the following publicly accessible webpages:

first and last name, category of participant, position, organization, address, country (the remaining data provided on your registration form will only be used for internal purposes.)

Visual and audio recordings made during this public event by the host and/or service providers and media vested with this task will solely be used for the purpose of reporting on and documenting the event.

You may revoke your above-stated declaration of consent free of charge at any time by sending a corresponding statement to lab concepts. Should you have any questions, please contact lab concepts or its data protection officer, Ms. Nasanin Bahmani, at any time: Tel.: +49 (0)176 - 55 18 44 99, E-mail: n.bahmani@bahmani.de.
